Art Unit: 3744

1. Claims 1-21, 45, and 46 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on June 10, 2004.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 22-27 and 29-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goldsborough in view of Stiller. Goldsborough discloses the claimed invention except for the salt-containing ice being used as the frozen liquid and for the temperatures. Stiller teaches a freezing method in which salt water is used to make ice. See especially column 3, lines 30-34, which teaches that the freezing chamber is maintained at about minus 50 degrees F to freeze salt water rapidly. It would be obvious to substitute, for the fresh water used in Goldsborough, salt water frozen at about minus 50 degrees F, in view of Stiller, for the purpose of using salt water when it is available. The salt content of the frozen ice is considered to be a matter of obvious choice, as no criticality or unexpected results are seen or have been disclosed for the recited salt content of from 2% to 4% by weight.

4. Claim 28 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goldsborough in view of Stiller as applied to claim 22 above, and further in view of Bouloy. Goldsborough as modified above by Stiller discloses the claimed invention except for the curved walls of the mold. Bouloy teaches an ice mold having curved walls. It would be obvious to modify Goldsborough so that the ice mold has curved walls, in view of Bouloy, for the purpose of making it easier to remove the ice segments from the mold.

5. Claims 34-41, 43, and 44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goldsborough in view of Stiller as applied to claim 22 above, and further in view of Giroux et al. Goldsborough as modified above by Stiller discloses the claimed invention except for the use of a beverage as the liquid to be frozen. It is extremely well known to freeze beverages such as Kool Aid in a mold. Giroux et al furthermore teaches the use of a beverage such as beer as a liquid to be frozen. It would be obvious to freeze a beverage such as beer, in view of Giroux et al, for the purpose of providing a frozen liquid other than water from time to time.

6. Claim 42 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goldsborough in view of Stiller and Giroux et al as applied to claim 34 above, and further in view of Bouloy as applied to claim 28 above.

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
